Draft Insurance Co.

CAPITAL: . . $80,000.

DRAFT

THERE are many men liable to draft whose business and family relations are such, that serving the Govern ment as drafted men, or procuring substitutes at the present high rates, are alike attended with peculiar Sight. A Company under the title of the Indiana Mutual Draft Insurance Comrany, has been organized for the special purpose of insuring men against the Draft, ordered for the 15th of February, 1865, and they have completed arrangements for the purpose of furnishing, and mustering into the service, an acceptable substitute in every case where a member is drafted. Its purposes are mutual relief and protection, at the same time leval and publishing, by a combined individual effort, the quotas of different localities throughout the State. Experience has shown that persons can be insured against the perils of fire and disease, upon a fixed calculation of risks. Are not public and individual interests anbserved by insuring against the contingency of being drafted?

It is estimated that of the number liable to draft, a certain proportion will be drafted. Accepting this ratio as a basis, the Company feel justified in und-rtaking to insure its members against the incoming draft, on each member's paying a sum to be regulated according to the ratio of the number to be drafted to the number excelled as liable to be drafted, according to the respective localities. The same individually contributed are to be deposited in the First National Bank, to constitute a fund for the relief of the drafted members. On the payment and deposit of the sum fixed by the Board, a certificate of membership is given, by which, if the member is drafted the obligation devolves on the Company of mustering into the service of the United States as acceptable substi-tute, and furnish him a certificate of exemption. Through the associated efforts and contributions of individual members a fund will be realized sufficient to relieve all who may be drafted.

To those whose business relations make it a great sacrifice to go as drafted men, and those who, if drafted would be unable to procure substitutes, the benefits to be derived from a membership in this Company are plain You are insured against the anxiety and personal inconvenience incident to one who knows not but what his name may be drawn from the wheel. From these harranging cares and anticipations you are relieved, as a company will fill your place with an acceptable substitute, if you are drafted. You are spared the pecuniary sacrifice which you must make when, after being notified that you are conscripted, you attempt to pay an exerbitant price for a substitute, when men take advantage of your individual necessities You are left to the prosecution of your business and the enjoyment of a home's privilege, and if paer, can you not better pay a moderate sum now fer a substitute than an exerbitant price after the draft? Again, you subserve a good and loyal purpose by speedily filling, through an associated effert, the depleter ranks of our armies. Believing that by individuals associating themselves in a Company like this, they will at a moderate expense to each, form a fund that will relieve all who may be drafted, and confident in their ability to fill the public demands, the Company invite all to a membership. They have facilities for fulfilling all they under-take, and apart from their reference to citizens generally, give the following
